

DEFINITION OF TYPE OF BODY WORK FOR PASSENGER CARS (M1)

Term	Definition	Drawing
AA Saloon	Body Closed with or without central pillar to side window Hood/Roof Fixed, rigid roof. A portion of the roof may however be openable. Accommodation 4 or more seats in at least 2 rows Doors 2 or 4 side doors. There may also be a rear opening.
AB Hatchback	Saloon (AA) with a hatch at the rear end of the vehicle.
AC Station Wagon	Body Closed. Rear shape is designed in order to give a larger interior volume. Hood/Roof Fixed, rigid roof. A portion of the roof may however be openable. Accommodation 4 or more seats in at least 2 rows. The row or rows of seats may have forward- foldable backs or be removable to provide a load platform. Doors 2 or 4 side doors and a rear opening. Windows 4 or more side windows

AD Coupe	Body Closed. Usually, limited rear volume. Hood/Roof Fixed, rigid roof. A portion of the roof may however be openable. Accommodation 2 or more seats in at least 1 row. Doors 2 side doors. There may also be a rear opening. Windows 2 or more side windows
AE Convertible	Body Openable. Hood/Roof The roof, soft or rigid, at least 2 positions: in the first one it covers the body; in the second one it is retracted. Accommodation 2 or more seats in at least 1 row. Doors 2 or 4 side doors. Windows 2 or more side windows

Illustrations regarding trailers and vehicle trains.

1. Trailer Towing vehicle: A motor vehicle designed for towing trailers. It may carry goods on a load body/ platform (See Figure 1)

Figure 1

2. Semi-Trailer Towing vehicle: A motor vehicle designed for towing semi-trailer. (See Figure 2)

Figure 2

3. Bus Trailer: Trailer intended for carrying passengers. (See Figure 3)

Figure 3

4. General Purpose Trailer: Trailer intended for carrying goods. (See Figure 4)

Figure 4

5. Caravan: Trailer which is designed for road use and provides mobile living accommodation. (See Figure 5)

Figure 5

6. Bus Semi-Trailer: A semi-Trailer intended for carrying passengers (See Figure 6)

Figure 6

7. General purpose Semi-Trailer: A semi-Trailer intended for carrying goods (See Figure 7)

Figure 7

8. Road Train: Combination of a motor vehicle with one or more independent trailers connected by a draw bar. (See Figure 8)

Figure 8

9. Passenger Road Train: Combination of a bus with one or more independent trailers connected by a draw bar for passenger transportation. The Passenger accommodation space is not continuous throughout the combination. (See Figure 9)

Figure 9

10. Articulated bus: A bus which is composed of two rigid sections connected by an articulated joint, with passenger accommodation spaces situated in each rigid section communicate. The free circulation of passengers from one rigid section to the other is assured through the articulated joint. (See Figure 10)

Figure 10

11. Articulated Road Train: A combination of semi-trailer-towing vehicle with a semi-trailer. (See Figure 11)

Figure 11

12. Double Road Train: A combination of semi-trailer-towing vehicle with a semi-trailer and a trailer. (See Figure 12)

Figure 12

